

Good evening parents,

This is a message from Jeanne Boudreau, principal of LeMarchant-St. Thomas Elementary. May is always an exciting time in school as the weather improves and the end of year is not too far away.

There is even more excitement in our community this year because of our move across the street to the Beaufort building in September to allow the province to break ground on the construction for the new school.

Just over a week ago, school staff had a chance to tour the Beaufort building after it was vacated. It was a great opportunity because it allowed teachers and support staff to envision what the school will look like in September when it is full with students.

Over the next three months, the school board has some renovation work in the building to convert it back to an elementary school. This work has already started and is expected to be completed by beginning of August.

I expect we will have more information to share with you regarding both the move into the Beaufort building and the construction of the new school in the next few weeks.

In the meantime, if you have any questions please don't hesitate to call or email me.

Have a great night!

Jeanne Boudreau
